Manpower in Viet Nam to Be Increased

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP)—The buildup of U.S. military manpower in South Viet Nam may include the addition of up to 3,000 Army men to provide more on-the-spot advisers and trainers in the battle zones.

Another 200 or 300 American Navy men and a somewhat larger number of Air Force men are expected to be included in the over-all expansion of several thousand over a period of some months.

Washington officials say about 18,250 American military advisers and trainers already are in South Viet Nam, deployed in the field with government forces or with headquarters staffs.

Here's how the total breaks down:

Army, about 10,000; Air Force, about 5,000; Navy, about 750; Marines, about 500.

There was speculation that the boost in aircraft strength might mean the assignment of more C123 transport planes. The C123, a propeller-driven plane designed especially for landings and takeoff on short fields, has proved particularly valuable in supply and other missions in the war against the Viet Cong in widely scattered and remote places.

In addition to work at military assistance headquarters and in schools, a major mission of the U.S. Navy contingent is working with the small craft patrols of the Vietnamese in running down junks and sampans carrying supplies for the guerrillas.

Castro Rants About Cuban Shot at Base

By DANIEL HARKER
SANTIAGO, Cuba (AP)—Fidel Castro launched a new attack at the United States Monday night, declaring that Cuba will "answer shot for shot" if "another man is murdered" by U.S. Marines at the Guantanamo naval base.

The Cuban prime minister held a 3½-hour news conference for 33 American newsmen visiting Cuba at his invitation and 40 other foreign newsmen who came to Santiago for the celebration of his 26th of July revolutionary movement.

Castro again rejected the U.S. denial of his charge that U.S. Marines killed a Cuban sentry at the Guantanamo border two weeks ago.

"What is important is that we believe and know that this happened, and the Soviet Union also knows it," Castro said.

"If another of our men is murdered, we will not have another alternative but to answer shot for shot independently of what the American government believes or not."

"The Soviet Union knows if we are forced to take measures we would not be looking for war."

Castro made clear that he would not give up his ties with the Soviet Union to improve relations with the United States.

"The United States tries to maintain a cold war with us and at the same time wants to improve relations with the Soviet Union," he said.

"That objective will not be accomplished. Cuba will not tolerate being separated from the Socialist bloc."

Castro dwelt at length, however, on the chance of improving relations with the United States.

"We have no resentment against the American people," he said. "It would be stupidity not to be willing to discuss our differences."

"If there is willingness, a way will be found. We want to discuss, but not in any hurry, and we are prepared not to have diplomatic and commercial relations with the United States for the next 20 years."

Makes Accidents Paying Business

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—A Kansas City man has collected about $10,000 insurance by deliberately causing more than 35 automobile accidents in four years, a prosecutor said.

Joseph Lewis Appleby, 40, pleaded guilty in Circuit Court Monday to a grand jury indictment of collecting on a false injury claim.

Donald L. Mason, assistant prosecutor, said the state had 42 witnesses ready to testify that Appleby operated in this manner.

Driving an old car, Appleby would slam on the brakes suddenly so that his car was rammed from the rear by a truck. Then he would tell the insurance adjuster his neck and back hurt and he was going to see a doctor. He usually settled for about $100 or $200 cash.

School Board at Star City Holds Firm

STAR CITY, Ark. (AP)—The Star City School Board held firm on its earlier policy on integration of school facilities Monday night and there appeared to be no strong challenge by Negroes to change it.

The board restated its stand at an open meeting granted after 52 Negroes petitioned for a meeting with the board to discuss the board's integration policy and the firing of six teachers.

At a meeting 10 days ago, the board told Negro patrons that it felt all students are attending the schools of their choice but said parents desiring to transfer their child should apply to the board through Superintendent Harold Tidwell.

Tidwell conducted the meeting and read the board's prepared statement.

Tidwell told a crowd of some 350 whites and Negroes that the six teachers were not rehired at the recommendation of Fulton Walker, principal of Lincoln (Negro) High School.

It was the first time Walker had recommended that a teacher not be rehired, Tidwell said. The board said earlier the teachers were fired for unsatisfactory work.

An equal number of whites and Negroes sat in separate groups on the floor of the Lincoln High School gymnasium where the meeting was held.

Employment Picks Up in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Unemployment dropped 10.9 per cent in Arkansas during 1963 as workers earned $1.1 billion, up $100,000 from 1962.

The state Employment Security Division reported Monday that the state's total civilian work force last year was 644,100, an increase of 12,000 over 1962. Unemployment dropped to 32,700 from the 1962 mark of 36,700.

Employment in Agriculture dropped from 83,500 in 1962 to 80,500 last year, but non-agricultural jobs jumped 3.7 per cent. The largest gains in non-manufacturing jobs were in construction, trade, service and government.

The ESD report said payrolls were "swelled by individual growth, economic expansion and rising wage rates."

Weekly earnings of factory workers averaged $69.83, a five per cent increase over 1962. The report said benefits paid to jobless workers under the unemployment insurance program was $12.7 million, compared with $12.8 million in 1962.

In Office Suggestion Box Realistic Cynicism Replaces Early Enthusiastic Idealism

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Some years ago many business firms started the custom of putting up suggestion boxes.

The thought was that the company would benefit from practical tips from its employees—and that the morale of employees would benefit, too, from the flattering knowledge that management was humbly seeking their help.

"After all, we're a team," the announcement on the bulletin board usually read, "and a team wins with the ideas of all its players."

So the bright new suggestion boxes, born of high hopes, bloomed in thousands of offices throughout the land.

Over the years in many offices a certain realistic cynicism replaced the earlier enthusiastic idealism.

The boxes began to contain fewer and fewer worthwhile suggestions. They became more and more reservoirs of complaints, office gossip, and wasteful remarks.

Many a boss quit opening the suggestion box after discovering the most popular suggestion was, "Why don't you resign, Big Daddy? What this outfit needs is fresh brains at the top."

Today many a company head has washed his hands of the problem of the suggestion box. He often leaves it to be opened by a junior executive in the personnel department.

And that young man, if he bothers to read the missives at all, is likely to find the box contains such familiar material:

Spacecraft Rocketed to Moon Mission

By HOWARD BENEDICT
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Ranger 7 spacecraft was rocketed toward the moon today with the mission of taking several thousand closeup photographs of areas where American astronauts may land in 1969.

An Atlas-Agena rocket blasted into the sky at 11:50 a.m. (EST) to start the spidery spacecraft on a planned quarter-million-mile journey which hopefully will end six years of frustration for U.S. moon shots.

The great rocket, 104 feet tall and weighing 138 tons, spouted a torrent of red-orange flame and sent a thunderous roar rolling across Cape Kennedy as it barreled away from its launching pad.

The early portion of the flight appeared normal as the big booster pitched over on a southeast heading and streaked from sight after about three minutes.

Faubus belied his image as a hard campaigner in this race. He stumped sporadically, made only one television appearance and his headquarters staff was only a skeleton crew.

His opponents, Joe Hubbard of Russellville, R. D. Burrow of Walnut Ridge, and Odell Dorsey of North Little Rock all were

Astronauts Picked for Space Flight

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Capt. James A. McDivitt, 35, of Chicago will become the first of the second generation astronauts to man the command seat in a Gemini spacecraft.

Capt. Edward H. White II, 32, of San Antonio, Tex. will be his copilot.

The surprise announcement of their selection as the crew of the second Gemini spacecraft was made Monday by Paul Haney, Manned Spacecraft Center public affairs officer.

An experienced Project Mercury astronaut had been expected to draw the pilot's assignment but broken bones knocked the older spacemen off the crew.

Maj. L. Gordon Cooper Jr., one of the seven Mercury astronauts, was the only member of the original seven-man Mercury team available for the assignment. The manned spacecraft center gave no explanation of why Cooper was passed over.

The backup crew for this flight will be Maj. Frank Borman and Lt. Cmdr. James A. Lovell Jr., with Borman designated as spacecraft commander.

The second Gemini Titan flight, bearing the code name GT4, is scheduled for "the first quarter of next year," Haney said.

The first manned Gemini flight is scheduled for December. If this one goes on schedule, the second should be in March 1965.

Gemini plans call for a flight about every three months. This timing is based on the assumption no technical problems would delay any of the flights.

The first Gemini crew, Maj. Virgil I. Grissom and Lt. Cmdr. Thomas Stafford, was selected in April.

The first manned Gemini flight will be for three orbits. The second will be for four days.

McDivitt was graduated first in his class in aeronautical engineering at the University of Michigan. He has been in the Air Force since 1951 and flew combat missions in Korea. He has more than 3,000 hours flying time, 2,500 of it in jets.

White was graduated from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and took a master's degree in aeronautical engineering from the University of Michigan.

Americans Killed in S. Viet Nam

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Communist guerrillas killed four American servicemen today as the U.S. government made plans for a big boost in its military manpower in South Viet Nam.

One of the dead was an Army major, shot to death by a Viet Cong platoon in broad daylight in the middle of a Roman Catholic village 10 miles northwest of Saigon.

Two Army officers and an Air Force man were killed by a mine set off under their jeep as they drove in a convoy of five vehicles on a road 21 miles south of Saigon.

The toll of Americans killed in action in this Communist-ruled nation since December 1961 rose to 163.

No Vietnamese casualties were reported in the destruction of the jeep. Of two Vietnamese soldiers accompanying the major, however, one was killed and one was captured.

Names of the Americans were withheld pending notification of their relatives.

The major, assigned as a sector advisor in Hau Nghia Province, was driving back to his post from Saigon on a main road normally regarded as under government control.

He was reported stopped and shot by about 20 black-uniformed Viet Cong riflemen between a government military post and the village assembly hall in Tan Phu Trung. Nobody tried to intervene.

A few miles away on Monday, the government reported, 12 Vietnamese rangers were killed and 31 were wounded when the Viet Cong exploded seven mines under a convoy. The Viet Cong, however, did not follow up the last with an attack.

Up to 3,000 more American military advisers and training personnel may be sent to swell the U.S. force of about 16,250 already in the country. No extension of the Americans' limited combat role was in prospect, however.

The four Americans dead were reported by reliable sources who could not give the circumstances. U.S. military spokesmen for the time being would confirm the death of only one American.

Four more dead would bring the total Americans killed in action against the Communist Viet Cong to 163 since December 1961.

The South Vietnamese government announced the new buildup Monday after a conference between Premier Nguyen Khanh and U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor.

A U.S. spokesman said the arrival of personnel would be gradual, and the number now planned might be changed as circumstances developed.

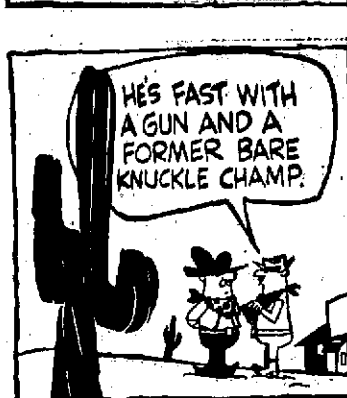

"This increase in U.S. aid as well as other aid from friendly countries granted at the request of the Vietnamese government should be construed as a warning to the Communists in Hanoi (the capital of North Viet Nam)," Khanh's government said.

The communique said U.S. aid would be increased in the following fields:

—More military advisers for Vietnamese armed forces, especially at battalion level and in the Navy and Air Force.

—More U.S. Special Forces of guerrilla war experts to advise Vietnamese special forces more effectively and increase guards against Red infiltration from HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Rev. James D. Rice said a complaint filed with federal officials against four hotels here would be dropped because the hotels had agreed to serve persons without regard to race, color or creed.

Rice, president of the Hot Springs chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the hotels had refused to serve Negroes, but have changed their policy.

The decision came in conferences between federal officials, representatives of the hotels and the NAACP, he said.

The hotels were not identified.

Not Too Good as Horse Traders

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Two girls who ran away from home "just because" have learned one thing from their experience:

As horse traders, they are flops.

Liddle Bell Baker, 9, and Janine Lavelle Musick, 7, left their homes about 11 a.m. Monday leading Liddle Bell's 4-month-old Shetland pony.

Before the girls were found by police in late afternoon they had sold the pony for $1, and spent outside.

—More advisers for Vietnamese regional and militia forces.

—More civilian advisers, especially for economic development, administration, health, police, agriculture and social affairs.

—More troop-carrying helicopters, flare-dropping planes and personnel to keep them flying.

South Viet Nam has an army of 200,000 and a 200,000-man paramilitary force. The Viet Cong is believed to have about 80,000 fighters. Guerrilla experts estimate that it takes at least 10 soldiers to cope with one guerrilla.

The new commander of American forces in the Pacific, Adm. Ulysses S. Grant Sharp, told newsmen today he doubts events are leading to a general war in Asia and that he is optimistic about progress in South Viet Nam.

Sharp arrived in Saigon today to confer with Lt. Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Viet Nam, and "to see what we can do better and to see what more we can do."

U.S. forces in Viet Nam now include about 10,000 Army men, about 5,000 Air Force, about 750 Navy and about 500 Marines.

Ethics Plan Turned Down by Senate

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has turned down proposed new rules for disclosure of the outside financial interests of its members and top employees.

Instead, it has thrown its support to setting up a 17-member commission to conduct a two-year study of measures to insure high ethical standards among all federal officials.

Establishment of the study commission may come up for a final vote today, although a bill to limit meat imports may be given priority.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, expressing surprise over the turn of events in the Senate Monday night, indicated he wanted to explore the situation before making a decision.

The financial disclosure resolutions that went down to defeat were the outgrowth of the Senate Rules Committee's investigation of the fortune of Bobby Baker accumulated while secretary of the Senate's Democratic majority.

Baker resigned under fire last Oct. 7. In a report to the Senate earlier this month the committee said he had been "guilty of many gross improprieties."

The committee recommended a new Senate rule requiring senators and all Senate employees disclose annually their major outside financial interests—but not the value of their holdings nor the income derived from them.

But Monday night the Senate voted 48 to 39 to send this proposal back to the committee with instructions that it report out forthwith a substitute measure providing for establishment of a 18-member commission on ethics in the federal government.

The Senate also defeated 62 to 25 a far more sweeping disclosure rule than the Rules Committee proposal. It was offered by Sen. Joseph S. Clark-D-Pa.

It voted 59 to 27 against a proposal by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., to require senators and other top Senate employees to submit copies of their federal income tax return and a list of their financial assets to a new watchdog committee.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A Frenchman once noted that the more a thing changes, "the more it is the same thing." It is doubly true of television programs.

Five years ago this reporter made her first trip to the film capital for a pre-season inspection of the fall programs.

There were many, many more Westerns on the schedules. Gene Barry, now one of television's top cops, was the fancy-vested, cane-carrying Bat Masterson; Richard Boone, the heroic Paladin; Hugh O'Brian, Wyatt Earp—shows that gave every promise of going on forever.

"Maverick," a sprightly spoof of the Western was a big hit, and "Gunsmoke" had struck audience gold. "Bonanza," however, then was fighting a losing Nielsen-rating battle with "Perry Mason" on Saturday nights.

The private eyes and the gentlemen adventurers were all over the networks: "Peter Gunn," with Craig Stevens playing television's first truly custom-tailored, sophisticated sleuth.

Craig Stevens will be back in a couple of months, playing an adventure-prone, custom-tailored, sophisticated press agent in CBS' "Mr. Broadway," a change without real change.

The Western, five years ago, was undisputed king of television.

making their first statewide political campaigns. Only Dorsey ran any semblance of a traditional race. He closed his campaign Monday night with a statewide telecast, his first.

The race for governor was the only statewide contest on the primary ballot.

Interest in the governor's race was at an all-time low in a state which traditionally has elected its chief executive in the Democratic primary. Only once since Reconstruction have the Republicans produced more than a token opposition for the Democratic nominee—in 1954 when Faubus, seeking his first term, defeated Mayor Pratt Rummel of Little Rock.

The threat posed by Winthrop Rockefeller, brother of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, switched the emphasis this year.

Political observers believed the prospects of an expensive primary campaign against Faubus for the right to make an expensive campaign against Rockefeller scared off Democrats who might have seriously challenged Faubus.

Less than half of the state's 633,000 voters were expected to go to the polls. Polls opened at 8 a.m. They closed at 6:30 p.m. Faubus' three primary opponents were so politically inexperienced and inadequately financed that Faubus made only a token race. He appeared on television just once and closed his formal campaign last Friday, five days after he opened it.

Opponents Joe Hubbard of Russellville and R. D. Burrow of Walnut Ridge did not open statewide campaign headquarters. Only Odell Dorsey of Sheridan and north Little Rock ran any semblance of a traditional campaign.

Hubbard, 32, resigned as a college Reserve Officers Training Corps instructor to make the race. Dorsey operates electrical supply and insurance businesses at North Little Rock. Burrow is a hardware and furniture merchant. None had made a political race before.

Little Lady, 104, Wows Audience

By BILL BARNARD

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—A little brown-eyed lady of 104 stood up and made a speech in one of this city's churches Sunday night and wowed the audience for 29 minutes.

She was Hilda Erickson, Utah's last living pioneer to cross the Plains from the East before the railroads came.

When it came time for her to appear at the Federal Heights Ward chapel of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, she was offered a throat microphone.

"This will allow you to sit while you talk," Mrs. Erickson was advised.

"I'd rather stand than sit," she said. Behind her, her only daughter, Amy Hicks, 80, watched proudly.

Her husband, John Erickson, died in 1944 and the couple's only son died a year later. She now lives alone in Grantsville, Utah.

Mrs. Erickson, who will be 105 in November, grinned at the audience for a moment and then said: "My friends, I don't know what I can tell you. They just run me into this!"

Then she laughed, heartily day at Batesville and Wednesday at Pine Bluff. They have already been held at Fayetteville, Arkadelphia and Jonesboro.

Would Let Russia Join in New Canal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., has raised the possibility that the Soviet Union might join with the United States and other countries to build and operate a sea-level canal across Central America.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, raised the possibility in a book which goes on sale today. The book is called "Old Myths and New Realities," and is based on an expansion of speeches he has made.

He says he is not advocating Soviet participation in a new canal project, but "neither do I think it must be ruled out as unthinkable."

Saying a sea-level canal larger than the present Panama Canal must be built eventually, Fulbright said the United States should definitely consider having the new waterway built by a consortium—a partnership of governments.

He then suggests that the Soviet Union as a user of the Panama Canal might be a member of the consortium.

Fulbright said the Soviets, as a member of the group, would not be likely to disrupt operation of the canal. He also said he does not "feel Russia would gain a new base for 'subversion in Latin America.'"

On the positive side, he said, the Soviets might be strengthened in "their commitment to a peaceful status quo" so that through this international co-operation there could be a gain "for world peace and stability."

The Fulbright book develops his basic theme that the United States needs to overcome what he calls a "cold war mentality," rid itself of unrealistic ideas about the state of the world, and work for "a worldwide state of mind in which peace is favored over war."

The book also discusses major international issues such as Cuba, Red China and Viet Nam. Fulbright, sometimes criticized for not speaking out more on civil rights issues, includes in his book a discussion of civil rights problems as part of a chapter on "The cold war in American life."

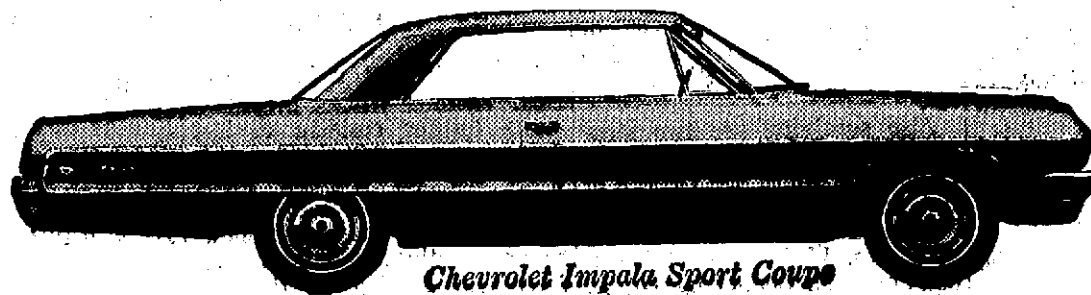

He argues that "even the strongest civil rights legislation can have only a marginal effect in advancing the hopes of the Negro for a fair and decent status in American society."

"Unaccompanied by major national efforts in the fields of education and employment, civil rights legislation can have little more than symbolic value."

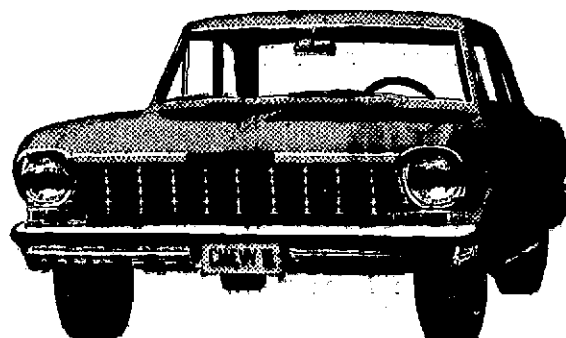

Fulbright says that an attack on poverty, race relations, employment and defective education is long overdue.

"HERCULES UNCHAINED"

Visits County
He Lost in
'62 Campaign

MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark.

(AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus made a surprise campaign swing Sunday into Baxter County—the only county in which he failed to lead the ticket in the 1962 Democratic primary.

Faubus promised 24 miles of county road improvements in an attempt to bring the county into his camp in Tuesday's primary election.

Faubus spoke at six meetings, arranged by state Rep. U. A. Hackler of Mt. Home. Hackler introduced Faubus at each meeting. Jewell Whitaker of Harrison, district highway engineer, and County Judge James H. Baker also made the tour.

Hackler has no primary opposition, but faces Republican Orville D. Pendergrass, a Mountain Home attorney, in the November general election.

Hackler said about 24 miles of road improvements were involved in Faubus' announcements.

Former Gov. Sid McMath got 1,529 votes in Baxter County in 1962, to 1,423 for Faubus.

Faubus' office had said the governor would rest at his home in Hunstville Sunday.

The local people in those areas (in Baxter County) arranged the meetings after I told them I could get there, Faubus said today.

The governor spent Sunday night in Harrison, then went to Green Forest and Berryville to-day. He planned to go to Huntsville tonight.

Faubus started his Sunday tour at Big Flat on Highway 14 in the southern part of the county. He told a crowd of 200 at the high school gymnasium that the state Highway Department would begin immediately blacktopping the remaining three miles of gravel on Arkansas 14 into Big Flat from the east.

Faubus said 14 west of Big Flat would be paved in the near future.

From Big Flat he headed north through the Ozark National Forest to Shipp's Ferry, the White River. There he told a small crowd that the Highway Commission would, at its next meeting, take into the state the remaining six miles of a 12-mile county road between the ferry and Mountain Home. Five miles of the road was taken in to the system last year.

Faubus also said that the ferry, now privately owned and a toll boat, would be made a free ferry.

Then Faubus went to Buffalo, a community down the White River, and promised that the commission at its next meeting would take into the state system the gravel county road from U.S. 62 south to Buffalo.

Then the governor went to the Tracy Resort on Lake Norfolk, where he spoke to 40 persons at an Army Engineers camp ground. He said the state would complete blacktopping on a county road from state Highway 5 northeast to the resort.

This would involve taking 2.1 miles of the road into the state system. Faubus said work would begin in October.

Then Faubus went to the northwest part of the Baxter County and northeast Marion County on Bull Shoals Lake, and promised that the state would blacktop Arkansas 202 from Arkansas 5 west to Bull Shoals Lake, a distance of nine miles.

He said half the work would be done this year and half next year.

The tour ended at Oakland on Bull Shoals Lake, where a dinner was held for Faubus Sunday night. About 100 persons attended, Hackler said.

Sentenced for Abandoning Child

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—

A young Arkansas couple must serve jail terms for abandoning an infant daughter here because of financial problems.

Municipal Judge Walter Osborn sentenced Willard Crow, 22, to 180 days and his 20-year-old wife, Margaret, to 120 days to-day after both had pleaded guilty to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The child, Alicia, now three months old, was left in a stranger's car May 25 as the family motored to Sacramento from Hattiesville, Ark. (Conway County). Willard told Osborn he was out of money and had no food to feed his family.

Alicia has been placed in a county receiving home and another daughter, 2, is in a foster home.

Evening Shade, Arkansas, gets its name from the presence of a huge oak which used to shade the settlement—folks used to gather in the shade of the tree in the hottest part of the afternoon and were so grateful for the shade provided by the tree that they named their town after it.

The Lhasa apso breed of dog is a terrier.

Engagement Announced

Miss Martha Jean Page

Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Page of Hope announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Martha Jean, to Howard Glenn Nichols, Jr., son of Mr. Howard Glenn Nichols of Pine Bluff and the late Mrs. Nichols.

Miss Page is a 1963 graduate of Hope High School and is a foreign language major at Ouachita Baptist College.

Mr. Nichols is a 1959 graduate of Pine Bluff High School. He attended Hendrix College and Ouachita College, where he received his degree in May 1961. He is presently employed by Vita Craft and will be employed in Houston by the J. C. Penny Co.

The wedding will be an event of September at the Heritage House.

"DEAR ABBY"

EITHER YOU DO —
OR DON'T!

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: How do you tell a pleasant good-hearted woman that she should wash her neck? This woman is popular and well liked. She is a faithful worker for "good causes" around town and her husband is quite a prominent businessman. Every time I see her, her neck is dirty. It's not just dust or dirt that could have accidentally just gotten there. It is a real grime collection. Should I write her an anonymous letter? I hate to hear other women make fun of her behind her back.

UNDECIDED

Dear Undecided: I would choose a pleasant, good-hearted woman with a dirty neck for a friend over one who would write an anonymous letter. If she is a friend, tell her. If she is merely an acquaintance, skip it. It's HER neck.

Dear Abby: The graduation announcement racket has got me hopping mad. It used to be an invitation that was sent to relatives and very close friends, and the idea was to INVITE the person to attend the graduation. Today, when a person graduates from high school or college, they send invitations to everyone they have said hello to over the years if they can find their name in the phone book. And the object is to see how much loot they can haul in. This June we received 16 announcements and we didn't expect one. What does a person do in a case like this? If you don't send a gift, they think you're a cheap skate.

HOPPING MAD
Dear Hopping: Send a card. If you send a gift just so people won't think you're a cheap skate, you're a hypocrite.

Dear Abby: I am at my wits end as to how to handle my mother. I am 50 years old and her only child. When she comes to visit me, which is all the time, she never lets me out of her sight. I can't go pick up a loaf of bread without her wanting to go with me. If I tell her I will be gone only a few minutes, she pouts and sulks like a spoiled child. I have never talked up to her. She has no friends and doesn't want me to have any. (She finds fault with everyone.) My husband says I act like I am still ten years old where my mother is concerned. I know he is right, but I hate to hurt her. She lives very near me and there is no privacy anymore. She seems to be getting worse. What can I do?

A GOOD DAUGHTER
Dear Daughter: If your mother says you are a good daughter, perhaps she needs to see a doctor. Her behavior is typical of some aging people undergoing a physical change. If her doctor finds her in good health, it is up to you to discourage her possessiveness as firmly and kindly as you can. Your husband is right.

Murder, Suicide
in Nursing School

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Ralph Edens, 63, of Huntington shot his estranged wife and a janitor, then killed himself Monday at the St. Edward's School of Nursing here.

Police said Hilda Edens of Fort Smith, 50, a maid at the school, and Charles Bennett, 65, of Muldrow, Okla., the janitor, were in satisfactory condition.

Mrs. Edens was hit in the chest, hip and arm with shots from a .32 caliber pistol and Bennett was shot in the neck.

Bulky Coats,
Band Collars
New Fashion

By LOUISE HICKMAN

PARIS (AP) — Buttonless, bulky coats with band collars were the news from Balmain today as Paris fall and winter fashion showings entered their second day.

The soft, padded look that comes from thick fur linings or soft quilting is important in Paris coats this season. Often the look is there without the fur or wool "stuffing" being apparent.

Most of Balmain's coats had edge-to-edge openings. Linings of fabric or fur had a layered buttoned-in look. Jersey helmet that he and Keith Kallio, 46, architect disappeared inside the rolled edge, rising band collars. Dresses were often of heavy jersey.

Bulky, open Balmain coats in camel were lined in camel, or camel and gray checked wool. Beaver went inside an oatmeal tweed that was lightly fuzzed the Balmain tweed coatings.

Dresses and suits also had band collars, often shaped to smoothly circle the throat like a necklace, rather than just straight up. Their edges were soft and rolled, not sharply pressed.

There were fewer grand bal gowns in the Balmain collection, a greater tendency to the throw-away elegance of jeweled "sweater" tops. They were either sleeveless short or tunic "pullover", or sleeved close-waisted bodices attached to skirts for a "tucked-in" look.

Goldwater
Seeking GOP
Harmony

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater, seeking to strengthen the GOP ticket in the coming campaign, is launching a drive for top-to-bottom party unity.

The Arizona senator announced Monday night a series of talks with GOP congressional leaders, members of the House and Senate, governors and other party chieftains "in the interests of the campaign, of all Republican candidates' campaigns and of party unity."

Goldwater confers Wednesday with the Senate-House Republican Leadership Conference to talk over legislation facing Congress and discuss campaign plans.

The senator said he and vice presidential nominee William E. Miller of New York are inviting all the Republican members of both branches to Capitol Hill breakfast meetings Aug. 6 and 7.

Shortly after those meetings, Goldwater said, he hopes to meet with Republican leaders including former president Dwight D. Eisenhower and former vice president Richard M. Nixon.

13 French
Quarry Men
Are Trapped

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

CHAMPAGNOLE, France (AP)—Hope began to fade today for 14 men entombed for almost 24 hours in a limestone mine in the Jura Mountains of eastern France.

A drill pipe sunk through 128 feet of mud and rock broke through into an intact part of the mine. Rescuers lowered a highly sensitive listening device down the 6-inch tube but heard only the sound of dripping water and falling stones.

Officials said the absence of human sounds was "very disturbing." They said the men would have come to the point where the pipe pierced the mine roof if they were alive and well.

One official said it was possible that the area of the mine under the drill pipe was cut off from where the men were sheltered. But in that case the rescuers face new and formidable difficulties when they break through into the mine.

The drillers had worked through the night at one spot without making a breakthrough. Then they moved the rig several yards up the hill and started again.

The men had been entombed within the 30-mile labyrinth more than 12 hours when sensitive special equipment, flown in by helicopter, caught what seemed to be faint tapping.

The rescue squads were trying to sink a ventilation shaft about 6 inches wide and 65 to 100 feet deep. This would assure a supply of air to the trapped men and would enable surface workers to get messages and food to them.

Scores of tearful relatives and friends stood by as the work went on through the night under floodlights.

The mine burrows deep within the 2,575-foot mound known as Mt. Rivel, a source of limestone for more than a century.

The only entrance to the mine was blocked for more than 1,500 feet by the cave-in.

Man Charged in Salesman's Death

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Hubard L. Cokes, 66, of Evansville was bound over to a grand jury Monday on a preliminary charge of murder in the shooting of a Washington salesman.

Judge K. Wayne Kent denied a request to set Cokes' bond.

Cokes, an oilman, told Kent that he and Keith Kallio, 46, argued over money and got into a scuffle Saturday night. Cokes said he grabbed for a .357 magnum revolver and hit Kallio on the head and the weapon discharged.

Kallio bled to death from a knee wound, police said.

Cotton Program
Extension Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cotton textile industry already has inaugurated a drive to get Congress to extend the administration's new cotton program which went into effect this spring and is scheduled to run through 1915.

Under it the government makes payments to enable domestic mills to get cotton as cheaply as foreign buyers who benefit under an export payment plan.

The American Textile Manufacturers Institute's Cotton Policy Committee says a bill to make the program permanent is mandatory and extension of the program would remove uncertainty in the industry regarding future cotton prices.

Wreck Leads to Stolen Property

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) - A minor collision between a police car and another car here Saturday led police to a house full of what they believed to be stolen antiques.

William Hatten, 39, of near Hot Springs, was charged with failing to yield the right-of-way after the collision. No other charges were filed against him.

Police Chief John Ermy said that a routine check of the Hatten home, six miles west of here, resulted in a find of antiques which a dealer here estimated at worth $10,000 or more.

Ermy said the two-story mansion was purchased jointly by Hatten and another man from Shreveport, La. This man, who was not identified, was held for questioning, Ermy said.

The police chief said the car Hatten was driving had been stolen in Alexandria, La. Ermy said the find included two paintings like a pair stolen from Shreveport, a desk like one stolen from a store here, and three refrigerators like ones stolen from a motel under construction

Police Seek Ghoul Who Stole Body

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) - Police searched today for a night-creeping ghoul who stole the body of a 14-year-old girl from its casket, then abandoned it slashed and naked in an alley.

The body of Theresa Koertgen was taken Saturday night from a Skokie funeral home by an intruder who broke in through a window.

Some 20 hours later, an Evanston motorist nearing his garage in the early hours saw the body in the alley behind his home.

Later Sunday, a long-sleeved yellow dress believed to be the one in which the girl had been laid out for burial was found in an alley on the north side of Chicago.

Capt. Edward Caulfield, head of the Skokie police force, described the crime, technically only a burglary, as "unbelievable in this day and age." The theft and mutilation of the corpse pointed to a demented man, he said.

Police questioned and cleared two men, one a 16-year-old acquaintance of the girl and the other a man seen loitering around the funeral parlor.

Theresa was the daughter of Leo Koertgen, an auto sales firm executive. She lived with her mother, Margaret, who was divorced from her father.

The girl died Wednesday in Skokie Valley Community Hospital after collapsing Tuesday in a Skokie swimming pool. An autopsy showed she died of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Escapee Found in Illinois Jail

HAMBURG, Ark. (AP) - A man who broke out of two South Arkansas jails has been found in an Illinois correctional institution, the FBI told Ashley County Sheriff Guy Morman Saturday.

The sheriff said Charles McMillan, 23, a Negro from Ashley County, was serving a 10-month sentence in the Cook County Correctional School, Chicago, Ill., for passing bad checks.

McMillan was jailed here on a similar charge last year, but got out of jail and drove away in a deputy sheriff's marked car. He later abandoned the car and was captured.

He was taken to jail at Crossett, where, on the morning of Oct. 22, jailers found his cell empty.

Morman said McMillan would be returned to Ashley County after his sentence in Illinois is served.

Benjamin Harrison was the first president of the U.S. to visit Arkansas. He visited the state in 1891, stopping in Little Rock for about two hours on a cross country railroad journey.

He did everything he'd planned; walking, pedaling, reading, and dart playing. After one mug, however, he passed up the warm ale. His August letters to the office and to his nephew Malcolm in Albany extolled his rustic tranquility. His September letter to Malcolm was, likewise, enthusiastic; but its postscript puzzled the young man: "Please send a 10-ounce jar of instant coffee, a carton of American cigarettes, and refill the prescription for my nose drops."

There was no letter in October, for Alistair was too busy feeding coal to the fire day and night and blowing on his chilled hands to write.

Nor was there any communication in November when the cold he'd caught from his drafty lodgings worsened into pneumonia.

A neighbor brought him soup and motorcycled to a town up the road for a physician. Dr. Bourne-White listened to his patient's chest, then sat studying him in silence before leaving some tablets and a prescription.

With difficulty, Alistair made out the doctor's scribble: "Return to America. You belong there now."

The sick man laughed between coughing fits at the irony of the situation. Contrary to everyone's predictions, Turnerspuddle hadn't changed.

He had.

THE HOMECOMING

By Ruth Engelken

Although Alistair Murdoch felt the seaspray on his face as he caned over the rail of the vessel, he could scarcely believe he was actually returning home to England after 40 years in the States.

Could Man dispose as well as propose, Valerie, instead of lying in a graveyard, would be standing beside him now, sharing their long-time dream of retiring together to their native Dorset. He ran a handkerchief over his forehead, plastering a shock of sandy-gray hair to his brown, and across his pale blue eyes, thin cheeks, and stubby moustache. The moisture, he knew, was not all from the sea.

By just closing his eyes he could again see the familiar hamlets, the thatched roofs, the rutted lanes rimmed with primroses, and the soft green of the rolling hillsides. There would be long hikes and bicycle rides beside meandering streams in the morning, reading in the afternoon, and darts and ale at the pub in the evening.

He could recall, too, the more recent memory of his former co-workers laughing faces when he had announced his decision to go home.

"You'll find a super highway through the town," Herb Smith had said, "and instead of sleeping to the tapping of a lazy river you'll be lulled by the whirr of hot rods' wheels."

Gus Meyer had bet him there'd be a TV antenna anchored to every chimney pot, and his secretary had mentioned the fact he'd probably get an apartment in public housing.

They were kidding of course, and Alistair didn't mind it. In fact he enjoyed it because it told him that his old friends hated to see him leave. They didn't want him to go away, so many miles, where they'd probably never see him again.

Riding a lorry into Turnerspuddle, he'd found the place more primitive than he'd remembered it, but every bit as quaintly appealing. He bought house that relaxed under a gnarled oak on the outskirts of the village and set about with paint and brush to make it homey.

For transportation, he secured a two-wheeler. Smith's quip about hot rods made him smile, for an ex-car that was more at home here than a souped-up jalopy. And Miss Davis's envisioning high-rise efficiencies was downright comical. Life here had remained almost unchanged for centuries, and he saw no likelihood of its being altered in the foreseeable future.

He did everything he'd planned; walking, pedaling, reading, and dart playing. After one mug, however, he passed up the warm ale. His August letters to the office and to his nephew Malcolm in Albany extolled his rustic tranquility. His September letter to Malcolm was, likewise, enthusiastic; but its postscript puzzled the young man: "Please send a 10-ounce jar of instant coffee, a carton of American cigarettes, and refill the prescription for my nose drops."

LOS ANGELES (AP) - At 108, Tatum DuPea cut ribbons opening a new freeway.

When she was 110, she had an appendectomy. At 111, she rode in a helicopter.

But Mrs. DuPea, a Plute Indian, was grounded for her 115th birthday Sunday. A broken hip had put her in a wheelchair.

She didn't let it get her down. Instead, at her birthday party, given by her son, Edwin, 64, she talked about her boy friend.

He is Capt. Edward Gray of the Buffalo Bill Circus in London, she said. Gray has been writing her love letters, she said, since he saw her bit performances in movies years ago.

Season Is Dedicated to Dead Players

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
RENSSELAER, Ind. (AP)—The Chicago Bears, defending National Football League champions, have dedicated the 1964 season to teammates Willie Galimore and John (Bo) Farrington, who were killed in an automobile accident Sunday night.

Owner Coach George Halas suggested to his squad in training at St. Joseph's College this would be the greatest honor which could be bestowed upon them. The players pledged to carry it through.

Galimore, a halfback and one of the most feared runners in the league, and Farrington, a pass-catching end, were fatally injured when thrown from their skidding small car on an unmarked sharp turn on a country road two miles west of camp.

Funeral services were to be held Tuesday morning with all the Bears and coaches in attendance, as well as Galimore's widow, Audrey, who arrived from their home in Tallahassee, Fla.

She has three children, Ronnie, 7, Fawngrita 5, and Marlon 4.

Farrington's widow, Vivian, was in such a state of shock in Houston that she could not travel. They were married last March.

The bodies will be sent to their home cities for burial.

The Bears were so stunned by the tragedy that all seemed in a daze Monday. A light workout was held in the afternoon with the players going through the motions like robots.

The arrow-pointing sign reading "curve" had been knocked down on the L-shaped turn of the asphalt strip called Bunkum Road, where the accident occurred.

It had been placed against a wire fence at the side of the road, which cuts through cornfields, and could not be seen by an approaching car.

"The sign had been down two weeks," said Mrs. Alan Fleming, whose farm home is at the curve.

Monday afternoon it was set up again.

Rockefeller Going to Jefferson County

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Winthrop Rockefeller, Republican candidate for governor, will carry his pre-campaign hand-shaking tour into Jefferson County Monday.

Rockefeller does not plan to begin formal campaigning until after Tuesday's Democratic primary.

Rockefeller will spend most of the day in smaller communities. He will attend a luncheon in Pine Bluff and at 6:30 p.m. he will take part in a Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Later Monday night, Rockefeller will appear at a workshop for his supporters in Little Rock.

Golf Big 3 Develops Into the Big We

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Professional golfer's Big Three, which Jack Nicklaus a year ago threatened to convert into a Big Me, suddenly has developed into a Big We.

It's no longer just a trio at the top of the rich and rugged fairway game—it's a crowd.

The four major pro championships of 1964 now have been decided and of the so-called Big Three—Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, and Gary Player—only Palmer, the Masters winner, came away with one of the choice plums.

Nicklaus, although the season's leading money collector, went 0-for-4 and failed to qualify for the $100,000 World Series of Golf, which he had won two years in a row. Player never seriously threatened in any of the four big championships.

New forces are making themselves felt in bigtime golf. New faces—one of them, at least, an old face re-emerging from the shadows of obscurity—have moved in to challenge Nicklaus, Palmer and Player.

One of them is the lean, serious face of Ken Venturi, 33, who slew the ghosts of past failures and frustrations in winning the U.S. Open last month in Washington's stifling heat.

Another is the puckish face of Champagne Tony Lema, 30, conqueror of cranky, old St. Andrews in his first try in the British Open and the most colorful figure the sport has produced since Walter Hagen.

A third is the fresh, baby face of Bobby Nichols, 28, who performed golfing miracles for four days in leading the PGA Championship through every round. He captured the imagination of the nation by the way he stood off the constant pressure of Palmer and Nicklaus.

As winners of major championships, Venturi, Lema and er, an old hand, in the scramble, Nichols qualify to oppose Palmer for the $50,000 first prize in the World Series of Akron, Sept. 12-13.

"This is very healthy for golf generally," said Jim Gaquin, tournament manager of the Professional Golfers' Association, discussing the even distribution of the four big titles.

"The emergence of the so-called Big Three did a lot to stimulate the game and we can't knock it. But it created an awkward situation."

Sponsors began to feel that their tournaments were a failure if they couldn't get Palmer, Nicklaus and Player—or at least one of them. The players on the tour became a little upset. They felt that there were any number of men capable of winning the big tournaments and that too much publicity was given the Big Three.

"This year's developments tend to prove that golf is not dominated by a small handful. We all think it's a good sign."

Since 1958, Palmer has won four Masters, the Open and the British Open. Nicklaus, at 24, has joined such immortals as Gene Sarazen, Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson as the only players to win all three of America's major pro crowns—the Masters, Open and PGA. Player has won the Masters and PGA and become the only foreigner to lead the money winning list.

Although shut out this year from a major title, Nicklaus, suffering a tendency to start with a bad round, has rallied to finish third in the Masters and second in both the British Open and PGA. He is currently the leading money winner with $90,864.76, followed by Palmer, with $80,693.37.

But golf fans are buzzing over a new Big Three—Venturi, Lema and Nichols. How good are they? Can they last?

Seven More Inducted Into Hall of Fame

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—The observance of the 25th anniversary of baseball's Hall of Fame offered a bizarre contrast.

Many of the all-time greats were on hand Monday to see seven new members, including Luke Appling, inducted into the hall.

Then, everyone adjourned to the relatively small Doubleday Field where an exhibition game matched the major leagues' two last-place teams, the New York Mets and the Washington Senators.

The Senators, who were 25 games behind in the American League pennant race, held off a ninth-inning rally for a 6-4 victory over the Mets, who trail by 23 games in the National League.

At the start of the formal ceremonies, Commissioner Ford Frick read a telegram from President Johnson. The President said:

"May I extend my congratulations on the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Baseball Hall of Fame. Baseball has made an important contribution to our American way of life and the Hall of Fame has made a laudable contribution in perpetuating the tradition of baseball and the memory of its outstanding players."

Four of the hall's new members—Appling, Heinie Manush, Burleigh Grimes and Red Faber—were present.

The deceased — Miller Huggins, Tim Lincecum and John Montgomery Ward—were represented by members of their families.

Appling, now a coach with the Kansas City Athletics, played shortstop for 20 years with the White Sox, winning the batting title with a .388 average in 1936 and a .328 mark in 1943. He was elected to the hall last year by the Baseball Writers Association. The other six were chosen by the Old Timers Committee.

Manush batted .330 over 17 seasons, leading the AL with .378 in 1928. Faber and Grimes were two of the more well-known exponents of the spit ball. Faber won 253 games during his 20-year career with the White Sox while Grimes played 19 years with seven teams, winning 270 games.

Keefe, a pitcher before 1900, recorded 345 victories. Ward also played before the turn of the century, standing out as both a hitter and a pitcher. Huggins managed the New York Yankees to six pennants in eight years.

Foreign Aid Next Aim of LBJ Leaders

By JOHN BECKLER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders hope to hand President Johnson another victory this week by passing his $3.4-billion foreign aid authorization bill without major changes.

But their chances of matching last week's performance, when they put through the administration's high-priority antipoverty bill, are threatened by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

Morse, who has been gunning for the bill for weeks, has a flock of amendments ready, aimed at trimming it by $468 million. He says it could take a week to dispose of them.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, predicts passage this week without any "crippling cuts."

Before it can get into the foreign aid fight the senate must dispose of a resolution growing out of the investigation of the financial dealings of Bobby Baker, former secretary to the Senate Democrats. The resolution would require senators and senate employees to make annual disclosure of their incomes.

It may have been disposed of Friday night when the senate voted to create a permanent bipartisan committee to police the conduct of senators and senate employees.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said the action had taken "a lot of steam" out of the disclosure resolution. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said it had made the resolution unnecessary.

Mansfield, who hopes to complete the Senate's business before the Democratic National Convention starts in Atlantic City on Aug. 24, has two appropriations bills ready for action this week in case the foreign aid bill is finished up early. They would appropriate $46.7 billion for the Defense Department and $210.3 million to run Congress.

House action this week centers on two bills, an increasing Social Security benefits and raising the tax that supports them, and the other creating a national wilderness system.

House leaders hope to clear the antipoverty bill for floor action next week. It comes up for a vote in the Rules Committee Tuesday. That's the last big legislative chore left for the House except for final action on the money bills after the Senate passes them.
